THE CHRONICLE AND THE MODOCS. Our neighbor, the Caronicle, hewalls in yeaterday's issue the unfortunate state of bewinderment of the newspapers generally in regard to the legal status of Captain Jack and his fellow-prisoners. In attempting to enlighten the world on the law of the case he seems to have wriggled himself into a more complicated smare than any of his cotomporaries, which is very agt to happen to any one who undertakes to settle, by his own tipse distril, a difficult and doubtful question of statesmanship or government. He draws a parallel between Captain Jack and Jeff, Davis, on which he evidently prides himself, and he makes a suggestion in favor of the former which we think is hearing to the intelligence of the American people, both North and South. He says:

"We suggest the query whether, under the neages of relities handons, Captain Jack is not entitled to about the same treatment from the flowenument of the United States received by Jefferhou Davis! The two cases seem to be about parallel in their essential features.

time they remained on their reservations in obedience to their treaty obligations. They age it could not have been persuaded to active a agoing the saccording to the roles of the roles not an "organized people" except during the time they remained on their reservations in obsedience to their treaty obligations. They were into no whee a nation which could declare war against us according to the rules of international law. They were simply the wards of the American nation. Their condition of bartarielm was acknowledged, and their helpicaness was the only cause of their being protected. fed and clothed for the sake of humanity. When they brock their treaty obligations and invaded the territory not set apart for them, but reserved for the purposes of an intelligent and progressive civilization, they were simply marauders, robbers and murderers. If they had carried on such operations on the sea they would have been ealled pirates and dooned to the death which should, under international law, have overcaken and pirates of whatever nation or character, whether Chinamen or Turks. They could not and did not declare war. They give no opportunity for preparation by the Government. The only obstacle they had to meet we are properly they declared they had to meet we set perfect resources and combinations of the frontier settlers, which were no match for their treascherous strategy. will make amends for the past.

THE PARMERS have probably elected their candidate, A. M. Craig, for Judge of the Supreme Court in Illinois. Fature decisions of the court regarding questions at issue between the farmers and railroad companies, so far as Judge Craig is concerned, may now be considered a foregone conclusion, as he has pledged himself in advance to favor the farmers. While we have every reasonable sympathy with them in their strangle for transportation reforms, we regret exceedingly that they have this rendered themselves liable to adverse criticism. They should have secured an amendment of existing laws through the Legislature, and thereby avoided the present unpleasant attitude in which they have placed themselves by having tampered with the judiciary.

The posice of habit is evidenced in the will make amends for the past.

THE FORCE of habit is evidenced in the fact that the Richmond Enquirer heads its late dispatches from the Modoc war "A Vic-pose of discussing, in an informal way, the prospects of the Democracy. The efforts made by them to deceive the people with the belief that the interests of internal improvement were alone considered will conse-quently fall, as will also the attempt to force upon them the delission that the Democracy unaided by the Republicuss, can obtain the inialed by the Republicans, can obtain the asked-for legislation at the hands of Congress. The halderdash utterances which followed about commerce being "the medium of remaining estranged sections" was a fraud so transparent as to be simply ridicatous, for, however true the statement may be in the abstract, we know that questions relative to human rights and the constitutional privileges of ritteenship are ruthinesty ignored by these same Georgia politicians, and that they are paramount to such elaptrap as we have quoted above. It is, therefore, useless for such men to attempt to ingratiate themselves such men to attempt to ingratiate themselves with the farmers and planters. So long as they deny the rights of manhood to the lately d class they might as well dione of "reuniting estranged sections."
